How VASER® Shape Works

VASER Shape combines ultrasound and massage to treat fatty tissue underneath the skin.

What Happens During a Treatment

Ultrasound energy warms the targeted area and treats the underlying fatty tissue causing fat cells to leak out their contents.

What Happens During a Treatment

Zonal massage helps to increase local blood circulation, open the lymph nodes, promote the metabolism and encourage the body to remove excess toxins.

The VASER® Shape Experience

- You will be prescribed treatments based on your body type and the results you are hoping to achieve.
- Typically, a treatment schedule will include:
 - One combined ultrasound and massage treatment per week, which typically lasts 30-45 minutes per body area
 - One zonal lymphatic massage session per week or manual massage at home
 - A total treatment regimen of three to five weeks

- Most patients describe the treatment as being similar to a hot rock massage.
- Your skin may appear slightly pink and feel warm after the treatment due to the increased blood circulation in the treated area, but this should resolve itself within a few hours.
- Physicians report that many patients notice significant improvement after the first session.
- Following the treatment, you can resume normal activity without pain or downtime.
