

Where RELATIONSHIPS Grow

Colorado Youth Outdoors exists to build relationships through traditional outdoor recreation. CYO's programs engage parents, mentors and teens in outdoor activities, including fishing, trap shooting, fly tying, archery, and more. Families who participate in our programs grow closer as they discover new things about natural resources, outdoor recreation, and most importantly each other.

CYO partners with other non-profit organizations in the community in order to share the gift of relationships at Swift Ponds. Swift Ponds consists of 240 acres which features Richardson Hall education center, Erion Pavilion, a trap range, an archery range and 12 fully stocked fishing ponds.
